

HAPPY PALENTINE'S DAY 2009

February can mean different things to different people. For us it means celebrating relationships, without them the world would probably end. That is where the idea of giving away Palentine's were born. (That and those awesome Valentine's bags we used to tape on our desk in grade school.)

But listen, Valentine's are important, very important, and we aren't suggesting a boycott. Not at all, instead we're suggesting that you give a little more this year. And why not, it's a card with a mustache on it?

So here you go download the full deck here. Print them out and give them away. Consider this our Palentine's day gift to you.

Oh if you remember let us know how it goes. Send us your stories, pictures and Palentine suggestions for next year.
